Boost for Indo-US Ties

HEMANT K SINGH &
KARL FINDERFURTH

As the Obama Administration makes a fresh push for Indo-US economic ties, the "strategic partnership" has been hailed by both the US and India as a major step forward. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.

The US is already India's largest trading partner, with over $1 billion in trade volume in 2013. The US is also India's largest source of foreign direct investment (FDI), and has been a major investor in India's technology sector.

In recent years, India has been looking to improve its trade and investment relations with the US. The US has also been looking to deepen its relationship with India, particularly in the field of nuclear energy.

The US has also been looking to improve its economic ties with India, particularly in the field of renewable energy. The US has invested heavily in India, particularly in the field of renewable energy, and is looking to deepen its relationship in the coming years.